Renata B. Hesse,

The settlement is wrong. It does not compensate members of the injured class. It creates new damages to innocent parties, like Apple Computer.

Please reject the settlement as it now stands and find a more effective way to punish Microsoft.

Microsoft is not taking this trial or the guilty finding seriously. They have done little to change their business behavior. In fact they flaunt their will, in the computer trade press and in the way the do business with partners, despite their wrong doing.

They have shown little regard for past settlements. This settlement will not alter their behavior in any significant way either.

It does not provide a remedy to the injured classes.

This makes a mockery of your court and the entire process of anti-trust justice.

Thank you,

Mitch Krayton
